If you've never been here before but have always wondered what goes on behind those big doors, come along and join in the celebrations.

In 2009, the Theatre Royal is having its 175th anniversary and you're invited to the celebrations!

It's been 175 years since the founding of the Theatre, the laying of the foundation stone and the first step along the path to realising the vision for Hobart's theatrical opportunities. The celebrations will include a full weekend where we throw the doors open, kick up our heels and make merry with tours of the theatre and backstage areas and a range of performances.

There will be displays of photos, drawings and other memorabilia, sets and props to explore - all this and more. So if you're a fan of the Theatre Royal, come along and relive some wonderful memories.
