We acknowledge the traditional and original custodians of the land on which we work and live, the Muwinina people of Nipaluna/Hobart, and all Palawa people of Lutruwita/Tasmania.

As the oldest living culture on earth, their stories, dances and songs have been shared here for tens of thousands of years.

We pay respect to elders past and present and thank them for their custodianship of this unceded land.

Windmill Theatre Company

Moss Piglet

Recommended for grades: 1-4

Contains theatrical haze, flashing lights and loud noises.

Tiny but mighty. Meet mother nature's microscopic miracles.

Step into a world where the tiniest creatures hold the biggest secrets. Found in virtually every environment on Earth – from your couch cushions to the deep sea – tardigrades are the ultimate endurance artists. These remarkable eight-legged creatures have the uncanny ability to survive the most extreme conditions, even the vacuum of space. Their incredible feats have earned these microscopic animals a cult following and the affectionate nickname “moss piglets.”

Moss Piglet takes young audiences on an unforgettable journey. They'll travel from a lava-filled volcano to the moon's shadowy craters, a science lab petri dish to an Arctic icy tundra. Using the physical wonders of puppetry, live video and green screen magic, you'll shrink down to experience hidden wonders teeming just beyond the edges of perception. The tardigrade's story is 600 million years in the making, an epic science tale told on the tiniest of scales. Moss Piglet proves that even the smallest beings can possess the most extraordinary power.

Monkey Baa

Where is the Green Sheep?

Based on the book by Mem Fox and Judy Horacek.

Written for the stage and Directed by Eva Di Cesare.

Recommended for grades: K-4

Contains theatrical haze/smoke effects.

Can you find the green sheep?

We know there's the up sheep and the down sheep, the band sheep and the clown sheep, the sun sheep and the rain sheep, but there's still one question on everybody's lips: where is the green sheep?

Mem Fox and Judy Horacek's illustrated children's book, Where is the Green Sheep?, has enchanted kids the world over. Now 20 years old, the book has become a right of passage for a generation of kids, selling over 2.5 million copies. For Monkey Baa's remarkable live staging, the Sydney company worked directly with Horacek, bringing her beloved illustrations to life using a mixture of live puppetry and on-screen animations.

Sheep come shooting out of cannons, whizz down slides and get up to all manner of hijinks as the audience tracks down the elusive green sheep. Using their impeccable timing and physicality, Monkey Baa's cast reintroduce parents and kids to the boisterous flock of sheep, a chance to experience Fox and Horacek's colour-filled world in a way they've never seen before.

Tasmanian Theatre Company and Mudlark Theatre

Things I Know to be True

Written by Andrew Bovell.

Directed by Ivano Del Pio.

Recommended for grades: 9-12

Contains strong language and sexual references.

Every rose has its thorns.

The Prices are a typical Australian family. Bob and Fran have worked hard to raise their four kids with strong working class ethics even as their circumstances have improved. Honesty, hard work, respect and family values are the lessons handed down in the Price household. With the kids growing up, Bob should have more time to tend to his precious roses, but over the course of a year, a series of family revelations shakes the Price home to its foundations.

Tasmanian Theatre Company and Mudlark Theatre's Things I Know To Be True is a tender portrait of the fragility and strength of familial bonds. As Bob's garden changes with the seasons each Price faces personal upheaval. Buried truths emerge and identities are questioned as the family searches for the source of their love for one another.

The script from celebrated playwright Andrew Bovell (Lantana) has been given a new local lens by director Ivano Del Pio and an ensemble of Tasmania's finest actors. Things I Know To Be True finds a family at an intergenerational intersection where heartbreak and hope collide.

ATYP (Australian Theatre for Young People)

Saplings

By Hannah Belanszky

Recommended for grades: 9-12

Contains coarse language (swearing), smoke and haze effects, loud noises, and references to First Nations peoples who are deceased.

Some seeds need support to grow.

What would you risk for a packet of Mi Goreng? Lachlan's out on bail from his youth detention centre but he's hungry, too. His life's about to change in less time than it takes to cook a packet of instant noodles. Saplings tells the story of four vulnerable young people who come face to face with Australia's youth justice system. Yani just wants to have some fun at the Easter Show and Lachlan wants his noodles; Shanika misses her mum and Kai's feeling lost and isolated by the world he inhabits. Hilarious and heartbreaking, Sapling sees four talented young actors take on multiple roles in this poetic, personal and unexpected production. You'll be left asking who's really to blame.

To create Saplings, playwright Hannah Belanszky (Yuwaalaray) and director Abbie-lee Lewis (Kalkadoon) met with young people in a series of workshops designed to give voice to people with lived experience of the youth justice system. Soundtracked by original music from talented young artists, Saplings is raw, impassioned theatre. It asks how young people are meant to grow in a system that is designed to cut them down.

Soft Tread in association with The Maybe Pile

Trophy Boys

Written by Emmanuelle Mattana.

Directed by Marni Mount.

Recommended for grades: 9-12

Contains strong language, sexual references, simulated sex scenes, adult themes including coarse language, low level violence, homophobic and misogynistic slurs, sexually explicit content including references to sexual violence, underage sex and depictions of image-based abuse.

Boys being boys.

St Imperium College's all-boys team think they've got the Grand Finale of the Year 12 Interschool Debating Tournament in the bag. It's the most important night of the academic year and the private school lads believe they're about to intellectually own their sister school. The topic up for debate: "feminism has failed women."

But as the boys are locked in a class for their one-hour prep time, inflated egos, hormones and nascent masculinity create a pressure cooker environment, leading to a chaotic turn of events.

Played by a female and non-binary cast in drag, this uproarious satire exposes the insecurity, privilege, entitlement and misogyny that runs rife in Australia's private boys schools. With graduates over-represented amongst the nation's powerbrokers and politicians, the award-winning Trophy Boys makes the case for an urgent change to the way in which the Australian education system is serving its young men, women and non-binary students.

Bell Shakespeare

Macbeth

By William Shakespeare

Directed by Peter Evans

Recommended for grades: 8-12

Please be advised that Shakespeare's original play contains depictions of violence, murder, sexual references and suicide.

Shakespeare's most haunting thriller.

Following a bloody battle, Macbeth and his comrade Banquo are met by three Weird Sisters who prophesy Macbeth will one day be king.

Unable to shake the thought, Macbeth tells his wife, Lady Macbeth. Driven by an insatiable hunger for power, posterity and certainty, they commit a murder and set in motion the unravelling of their sanity. With blood on their hands, they face the dire consequences of their despicable actions.

A terrifying portrayal of moral collapse, Peter Evans' Macbeth, with Anthony Taufa in the title role, will take you on an intense journey into the dark heart of humanity.

re:group

POV

Recommended for grades: 9-12

Contains discussions of mental illness, Bipolar Affective Disorder, and themes of suicide.

One child. One camera. One truth.

Bub is an 11-year-old with a camera and her family is in crisis. Obsessed with documentary filmmaking, she turns her lens on the breakdown of her parents' relationship, staging dramatised re-enactments to make sense of the chaos.

In each performance of POV, two adult actors – who have never seen the script before – join a young performer on stage. As Bub directs them to re-enact scenes from her personal life, the cast navigates tough questions about parenting, mental health and the way we communicate with kids. The story unfolds in real-time as they discover the answers alongside the audience; and Bub gets to the bottom of her mum's erratic behavior. While the two adults fear corrupting the innocence of their child, Bub is determined to learn the truth.

As re:group's next iteration in its series of live cinema experiences, following Coil and the sci-fi spectacle UFO, POV, is an urgent, live documentary. It blurs the lines between personal history and performance to explore intergenerational connection and the agency of young people.
